• IN THE HEART OF VENICE •

The privilege of being in Venice is lived to its fullest with a stay at the LONDRA PALACE. The Hotel is right on the Riva degli Schiavoni, just a few steps from St. Mark's Square, Ponte dei Sospiri and other famous spots as well as the most hidden, authentic corners of the city known as Serenissima. The reception staff are always happy to provide guests with accurate directions.

• THE HISTORY OF A LEGEND •

The name "LONDRA PALACE" goes back to the 1970s. Originally, the hotel was made up of two separate hotels: the Hotel Angleterre & Pension, later called Londres, dating back to 1853 and the Beau Rivage, built in 1865. The two buildings were joined together in 1900. The roof of the older building was raised in the 1950's, renovations carried out at the turn of the new century and the latest redesign of the space on the street level give the hotel its current aspect.

• THE ART OF HOSPITALITY •

A stay in junior suite 106 – here in December 1877 the Russian composer Petr Il'ic Tchaikovsky wrote the first three movements of Symphony no. 4 – offers a taste of history. In suite 504, dedicated to Jules Verne – who stayed at the Londra Palace in 1884 – with a stunning view of the lagoon discovering details that recall the writer's stories of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea", dreaming fantastic adventures.

• AN ENCHANTING STAY •

The LONDRA PALACE offers 53 rooms, each one different from the other: fabrics on the walls studied, designed and created only for this dwelling, stylish furniture and furnishings created by the most skilled local craftsmen and marble bathrooms. The style of the rooms clearly has a nineteenth-century imprint, the hotel's heyday.

• DINING WITH CLASS •

The DO LEONI Restaurant is the pride of the HOTEL LONDRA PALACE. The Chef, Loris Indri, skillfully espouses Venetian traditions with the most innovative and traditional tastes, selecting local products for the range of seafood and meat specialists featured in the menu. The DO LEONI Restaurant welcomes outside guests and also hosts private banquets for a maximum number of 40 either the indoor or outdoor dining area.
