ROME AMBASCIATORI PALACE

An Important Story

The InterContinental Rome Ambasciatori Palace is housed in an elegant early 20th-century Neo-Renaissance-style building, located opposite the American Embassy on the historic Via Vittorio Veneto.

The building was designed by architect Carlo Busiri, who borrowed typical architectural elements from the Renaissance, such as pediments and columns, creating symmetrical and elegant forms. The interiors, never banal or merely decorative, reflect a meticulous attention to detail, giving the hotel—situated in the heart of Rome—that “fin de siècle” elegance, with a theatrical and well-represented concept of “discreet luxury.”

A place in constant transformation: originally a residence for ambassadors visiting Rome, later— in 1946— the American Embassy library, and in 1993 the building opened its doors as the Ambasciatori Palace Hotel.

A location that needs no introduction—Via Veneto—the street of glamour and cinema, a crossroads for actors, musicians, and internationally renowned artists, the site of La Dolce Vita, home of the paparazzi, and the avenue of five-star Roman hospitality and excellence.

InterContinental

After almost three years of renovations, the Ambasciatori Palace Hotel reopened to the public in May 2023 under the InterContinental brand of the IHG Hotels & Resorts group, marking its return to Italy after almost seven years of absence.

F&B Outlets

Scarpetta NYC: A name that encapsulates its philosophy: savoring a meal to the very last bite. This Italian tradition is elevated and becomes symbolic of a new way of enjoying dining. An elegant setting where Italian culinary traditions blend with those of New York City. The philosophy here is to highlight the aromas and flavors of the finest ingredients, with simple dishes like spaghetti with tomato and basil representing the essence of this approach, becoming its symbol. The wine list—featuring Italian and American wines—and the New York-inspired cocktail menu make the dining experience even more exclusive, with perfect and intriguing pairings.

Anita Lounge & Bar: The first space to greet guests as they enter the hotel. It represents the heart of the hotel and marks the rhythm of the day. A place to spend pleasant moments, or timeless ones. A place to wait, perhaps while flipping through an art catalog. A meeting spot, accompanied by a custom-made drink. A place to relax after exploring the city or while waiting to dine at Scarpetta NYC.

Charlie's Rooftop: A “good time Charlie” is someone with a carefree and convivial spirit who seeks excitement and fun. This is the person who greets you upon arrival, breaks the ice, and makes you feel at ease. Welcome to Charlie's bar, located on the rooftop of the InterContinental Rome Ambasciatori Palace, a modern jetsetter environment featuring live music, exclusive DJ sets, mixology, and refined canapés. At Charlie's, you can decide who you want to be for the evening, whether for a fun aperitif or a boundless after-dinner experience.
